GERMANS PLOT CZECH REVOLT

too, at least as many as could get viewpoints, leaving it to the council to make a decision.

By The Associated Press. 11.—The first rough outlines of the peace treaty are beginning to take form as a result of the rapid disposal of the main questions before the council of the great powers. The preliminary draft will be well along within the present week and with the arrival of President Wilson final revision will proceed to have the document ready for presentation by the end of next week and thus conform to Marshal Foch's limit of March 30.

The treaty promises to be a very long document, chiefly owing to detailed provisions concerning the German military system and methods for its control by the allies. It will embody, however, only five or six main divisions, namely:

First—Military, naval and aerial terms; second, reparations for the war; third, German boundaries; fourth, economic and financial provisions; and, finally, fifth, miscellaneous provisions.

All these main subjects are in an advanced stage and have been either adopted or agreed on in principle, with the exception of some reserved points on which President Wilson and the premiers are to take final action.

The military terms adopted yesterday were in the hands of the drafting experts today to be put in the form of articles of the treaty.

The naval and aerial terms are agreed to, except as to reservations regarding the disposal of the large German ships and the dismantling of Heligoland and of the Kiel canal. Germany's eastern, western and northern boundaries are now before the council, or in the committee of reports. The eastern and northern boundaries are to be determined on Thursday. The western boundaries will be settled Friday.

The consideration of reparations is set for Saturday. This covers all the principal objectives except for responsibility for the war.

It is the desire of the French to have this made an integral part of the treaty to settle the question.

The consideration of reparations has introduced the word "trillion" in describing money, probably for the first time in any single financial operation, for although millions and billions often have been used in war finance, no sum has yet been reached touching trillion.

In estimating the war losses of all the powers, the first figures of one of the great powers aggregate a trillion francs and those of another power were slightly above a half trillion francs. These first estimates have gradually been reduced until the present aggregate covering the losses for all countries is about one-fifth of the first estimate and in final form probably will be in the neighborhood of $25,000,000,000 or $40,000,000,000.

Final figures have not yet been written into the committee's report, but has been left in blank and expressed as "X" so that an insert may be made.

The covenant of the league of nations does not figure as a part of the peace treaty, but will be treated separately.

France has abandoned for the present, at least, any hope of having her great war reparations shared by the allies. It is authoritatively asserted by one of the Americans attending the conference that what has been an embarrassing possibility has now been definitely eliminated for the deliberations.

The British and American delegations have been quite frank in their first proposal, and have openly said that the people of their countries would be slow to endorse such a plan.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 11.—First conference in an effort to end the walkout of some 1,200 clerks on the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis, the Tennessee Central and the Illinois & North Western railroads were held here today. In separate session late today created a committee of seven, with Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific, as chairman, to cooperate with the railroad administration, the war finance corporation and bankers in arranging railroad finances.

Other members of the committee are:

Albert H. Harris, vice president of the New York Central; Robert A. Lovett, president of the Union Pacific; Samuel Hays, president of the Pennsylvania; Henry D. Phillips, president of the Erie; Henry Walters, chairman of the Atlantic Coast line; and Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio.

The director general's statement said the amount needed up to June 30, 1919, was as follows:

For interest and other corporate requirements of the railroad corporations, $166,066,182.

To meet amounts due equipment companies by the railroad administration, $183,681,966.

To pay for indispensable additions and betterments, including equipment ordered by railroad corporations, $118,000,000.

To meet maturity of the railroad corporations, $160,948,965.

To meet excess of cash requirements to pay current vouchers over the probable receipts up to March 31, 1919, $191,000,000.

To bring cash balance on hands of federal treasury up to $200,000,000, which is the normal requirement for one month, $40,000,000.

Total, $701,697,692.

It was made clear that to a large extent it will be necessary for the railroad corporations to meet their requirements by obtaining loans from bankers, the resources of the war finance corporations to be reserved to protect special cases.
